REMARKS

RETURN TO CIA LIBRARY

1. Two runways had been completed at the BRATISLAVA-IVANKA (P 49/V 09) airfield (see sketch), which was still under construction. A railroad spur track had been built to the field. Cantonment buildings had been erected for the airfield workers, who were guarded by SNB. Only the foundations of the airfield buildings on the western edge of the field were completed.

25X1 ☐ Comment:

a. The BRATISLAVA-IVANKA airfield was expanded after the war. Construction work was still going on in October 1948, and there was only one concrete runway. A second runway apparently has been constructed since.

b. Location of the airfield shown on the attached sketch agrees with previous reports. It has not been occupied by an air unit.
